Family Resources for Struggling Readers

Dear Families,

The faculty and staff at Albany Elementary School make every effort to ensure that our students are proficient readers before the end of 4th grade. If your child is struggling to learn to read, or comprehend what they have read, we have a variety of resources available to help them at school and help families at home to improve your child's reading ability.

During the school day, your child will receive differentiated reading instruction that is on your child's level during our daily Boost Block (Response to Intervention or RTI). The lessons provide interventions for students to start where they are in their learning and move them closer to the grade level benchmark goals. We also have Edgenuity PathBlazer Reading and Lexia online programs that students use to help them gain essential reading skills.

Albany Elementary School has a Reading Recovery Teacher, Mrs. Teresa Butler, available for reading instruction and lessons for students that qualify for the program. We also offer Extended School Services Morning Tutoring for students that are struggling in reading and math. September through December we also offer Extended School Services Daytime Waiver Intervention with a reading specialist in reading.

If you would like more information about any of the services at Albany Elementary School, you can call the school to talk with your child's teacher or our School Counselor, Mrs. Kathleen Gregory.

Sincerely,
Albany Elementary School
